Röthlisberger Schreinerei AG / RÖ The company Röthlisberger was founded in 1928. A lot has changed since then. The former joinery is now a complete supplier for interiors with an in-house engineering division. The traditional workbench has given way to cutting-edge CNC tools and a machine park that can be set up to accommodate any conceivable project. A subsidiary in America provides customers in New York and Seattle with direct support. In collaboration with leading designers, Röthlisberger has been producing its own range of designer furniture since 1977. The tasks have become more complex – as has the company.
